

Florida Leisure Vacation Homes Helps Stranded Family After Orlando Vacation Home Scam Nightmare

Florida Leisure Vacation Homes, an Orlando based vacation home provider, comes to the rescue of a family stranded in Orlando after being the victims of a vacation home scam.

Orlando, Fla. – August 12, 2010 – Local Orlando news station WESH Channel 2 recently reported about a family of 16 from all over the country, meeting in Central Florida for a family reunion, who arrived in Orlando expecting to stay in a vacation home of which they paid over $2,000. Unfortunately, when the family arrived to pick up the keys to the home, the company that sold them the service was nowhere to be found.

Hilda Sonia Cruz-Calderon from Miami filed a complaint with the Osceola County Sheriff's Office after realizing that the 7-bedroom vacation home for which she had already paid for, seemed to be a scam. WESH Channel 2 in Orlando reported the heartbreaking story on August 11th. The original news story can be found at <http://www.wesh.com/news/24593201/detail.html>.

Enter Florida Leisure Vacation Homes and CEO Nigel Worrall. Nigel saw the news feature and immediately wanted to help the family. "I watched the news last night and saw that these guys were desperate for a home," Worrall said. "I offered a home to make up for the home that wasn't there."

Worrall has long been an advocate of choosing vacation rental homes and has warned time and time again about some of the scams that are being perpetrated on tourists across the state. Nigel is also the author of "What You Need To Know About Renting A Florida Vacation Home" and this is one of the reasons he wrote the book.

Nigel was more than happy to provide the Cruz-Calderon family a place to hold their family reunion, letting them and others know that there are certainly some "good guys" out there.

"He's made our nightmare into a dream," Cruz-Calderon said.

WESH also reported on the efforts of Florida Leisure Vacation Homes. That story can be viewed here: <http://www.wesh.com/news/24604029/detail.html>

Nigel's company, Florida Leisure Vacation Homes, offers 3-7 bedroom private vacation homes near to all the Orlando area attractions including Walt Disney World, Universal Studios, Sea World and many more.
